

Medicare Drug Coverage Changes:

EVALUATING NEW OPTIONS FOR 2025

NATIONAL HEALTH COUNCIL

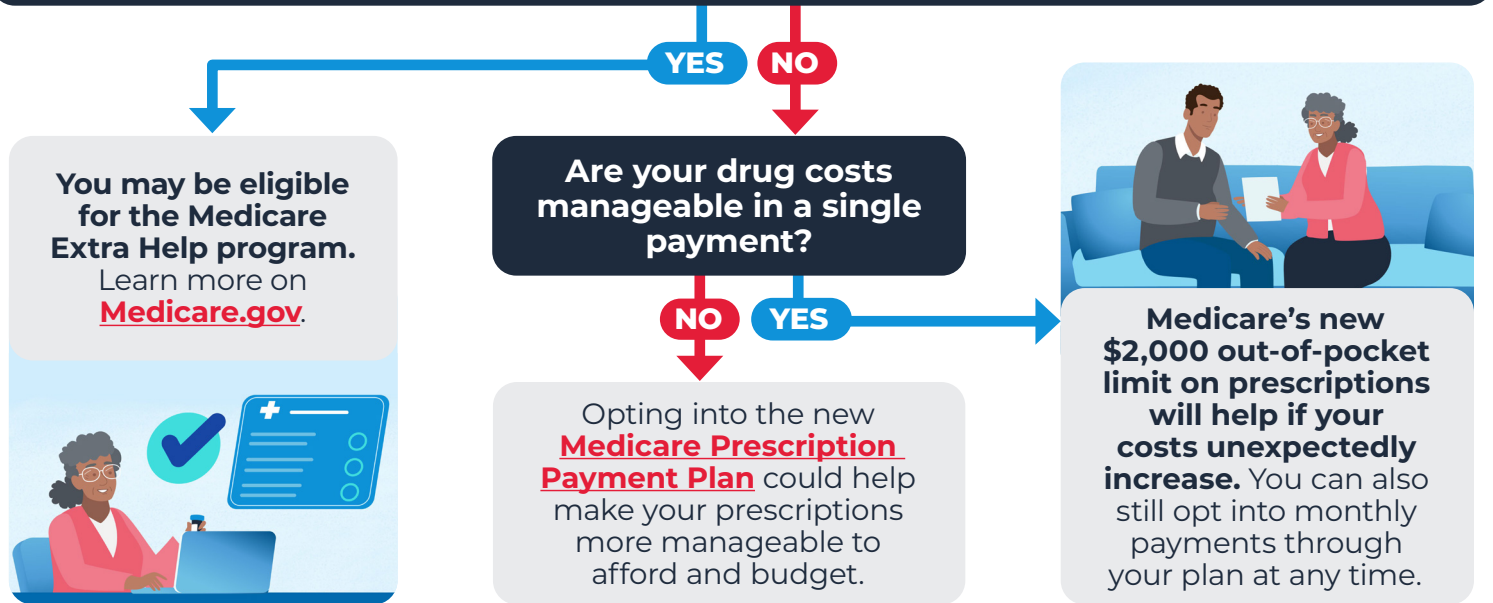

In 2025, Medicare will limit everyone's out-of-pocket expenses for covered Medicare Part D prescription drugs to $2,000 a year and introduce the Medicare Prescription Payment Plan, an option to spread prescription costs spread prescription costs monthly.

This can be especially helpful for those with high-cost prescriptions or chronic conditions.

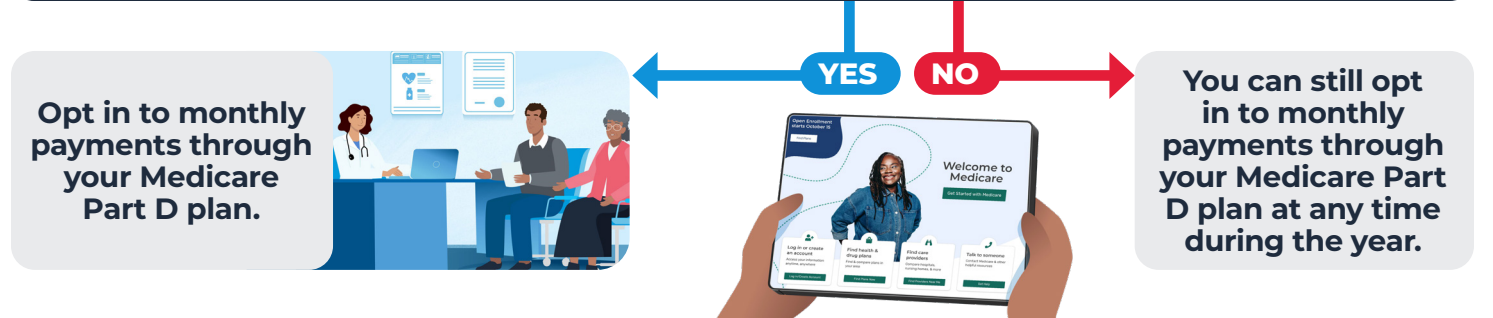

The new payment plan is voluntary, flexible, and available to opt in through your drug plan at any time during the year. While it may not lower overall costs, it can make budgeting for important prescriptions easier.

The sequence below can help you or your loved one navigate Medicare drug plan choices.

Is your 2024 annual income below $22,590 for an individual or $30,660 for a married couple?

Do you plan to sign up for the Medicare Prescription Payment Plan?

Talk with your family or health care professionals and review your financial situation to find the best Medicare plan for you. Visit nationalhealthcouncil.org/big-changes-to-medicare-drug-coverage to learn more.